“ Your passing is still such a shock to me. It has been a joy knowing you, working with you and having you as a friend and confidant. I will miss you terribly but I will never forget any of the time that I was lucky enough to share with you. It breaks my heart that I am unable to attend your services, only the birth of my granddaughter could have kept me from being there. May God rest your soul and be with your family at this time. And when you see B, tell him that I love and miss him. I'll see you both again one day. RIP, my friend.
