“ Me, Patricia Rogers Haston were childhood schoolmates. We remained friends but we had a special friendship that only happens to us if we're extremely lucky. I GOT VERY LUCKY and I thank God in heaven for sending her to me. Our friendship was like the song friends. No matter what. Where or what we had to do we were always there for 1 another. When I married my second husband is when my own journey took me away from Louisiana to westmemphis, Arkansas. I went home very often but I never left without a visit to see frances. Frances was married to Johnny kinchen at the time. Johnny was a good man who loved his wife and children but frances being the beautiful, kind free bird that she was couldn't keep her feet planted in 1 place 2 long. Always searching for that 1 happiness that she so deserved but never found until that 1 day. I've been 2 the other side 4 a brief moment when I had double pneumonia and decided 2 stay because of my now deceased loving husband so he wouldn't be alone. I'm telling you this because I know where frances is. Yes it hurts so very bad because of our great loss but France's search for happiness on earth is no longer. Frances is very happy now.

“ I have so many great memories of frances and myself. I do remember a time in my life when I needed a real friend and 1 night out of the blue she and Johnny and the boys showed up all the way to Westmemphis Arkansas for a visit. Frances had never been up there but she remembered the little things when we talked and there she was. Me and my now deceased husband David Haston took them to Elvis Presley house and just hung out together. She and myself. The outdoors potty sucked cause we were in there together . I do miss her very, very much. This old world was just too big for someone as beautiful as herself.

“ My condolences to the family of Frances. I am shocked to hear of her death. I have so many fond memories of her from our teen years. I didn't see her often, but when the occasion did occur we always looked back and wondered how we survived all those crazy times.

My thoughts and prayers to all who loved her, and my most sincere apologies for missing her services today.##imported-begin##Ruth Stein##imported-end##
