“ Garland I remember you chasing me around playing in the yard, eating boiled eggs at the golf course, sitting by your homemade fires at your house in Hammond, your excitement to go boating on the river, trying to be a father figure but understanding me and accepting me for who I was, you always said the Thornhill's were your comfort besides my mom. When you a baby and Sheba was still alive you dug a hole in the ground and hide my moms keys so my mom couldn't leave. I wanted to to that to you when I heard you left. You are the only one who understood feeling TOO MUCH the empathy the reality and keeping that truth bundled up is unbearable.
