“ James was a caring and warm friend to my sister Nancy Rassiga. I will always be grateful for the time he shared with her, it meant so much to her. He would come to her home on Lullwood in San Antonio and take us out for lunch, stashing her wheelchair in the trunk of his car. Nancy passed away in 2012 after a long illness with MS. Thank you James for your kindness to her! Elizabeth Rassiga, her sister

“ Jim was a quiet gentle giant of a man who provided care and compassion for all of his patients. During his schooling at Stony Brook he was always there for each of his classmates and never stopped helping others. He excelled at being a Physician Associates and spent many years in remote and dangerous areas of the Alaskan wilderness making sure that workers on the pipeline survived dangerous situations and dangerous environments. He was a true healer
