“ I can't believe it has been almost 4 years.....and this is the first time I've read your obituary. Just typing the word "obituary" breaks my heart, you should still be here....

I remember so much about you. From the time we were kids to the time we started having kids of our own. I can still remember the sound of your voice and sometimes I'll say something and it reminds me of you and the way you said it or how you sounded...I miss you a lot. I remember how we would always joke about me being your aunt and how you are older than me. I hated being called Aunt Dana, lol. But it was funny! I remember when you and Jason stayed with me at my moms in Florida, and we made him mad about something so he threatened us with a knife, he was such a brat! We laughed about it years later, but I was honestly a little scared at the time but you weren't. You were never scared of anything. I have so many great memories of you, and I'm so thankful for each one.

*I really miss you.
I love you forever,
Aunt Dana*
