“ To the Wilson family, I only met Josh once, but that one time meeting him was enough to know he was a great all-around guy! I wasn't in a great mood the day I met him and he put a smile on my face in 2 seconds.

I too, just lost my sister on 9.18.07, so I know 1st hand the pain your family is going through. Just remember you have an Angel in Heaven watching over you now and you will get to see his smiling face again!###imported-begin###Brittany Stewart###imported-end##

“ Hey Josh,
I know we didn't get a chance to become good friends, but I feel like we already were. Kinda like a brother to me. I'm so glad you're with Jesus! No more sorrow, sickness, pain, temptations, and all that other evilness in this ole world. I bet you would have never thought you would make a difference in so many lives, but you did. I only hope your friends will make that change for the better and keep it up. Cause I know they would want to see you again one day. I can't wait till that glorious day when Jesus comes and we all get to see you again! I have so much to tell you. Your family misses you soooo much. Your mom is holding up so strong, but I know you are her life and it must be hard. Only God can send down that Comforter. It must be awesome to be in the presence of God! I miss you and I'll see you again one day!###imported-begin###Amanda Stewart###imported-end##

“ Josh, I wanted to let you know that even though Joe didn't show it that much, maybe not at all.. but he really did love you. When he found out about the accident, he didn't know what to say or do. He is hurting inside. I believe that you wanted some kind of relationship with him and I am sorry that you didn't get that chance. Although you aren't here to see it, he has that respect for you and since this happened he has opened his eyes and is really trying not to be judgmental. There has been so many people touched and changed for the better since your passing. I truly know that God has a plan for everything HE does. I am grateful to have known you as long as I did. You will be missed but not forgotten Love you.

Christ's Love,
Tyler, Kayla, Jessica and Joe Davis##imported-

“ Josh, you know I will always love you. I practically raised you when you were young, taught you how to play baseball, how to ride a bike, how to play hide and seek, took you to every vacation we went on, but most of all--I taught you about JESUS. We took you to church from a very young child till your mom let you make your own decisions. But, I'm proud to have been a part of your life. I am also proud to see you walk the aisle and accept Jesus as your Saviour. That gives me peace in knowing you're in Heaven and some-day, I'll see ya again. I hope Jesus lets you know that souls are being saved and families re-united since you left us. And I know that if you could talk to all your friends, you'd tell them "Get ready, cause you never know---you might be next. Don't leave this world without having Jesus in your heart. Because if you die without him, you won't get to see the beautiful things I see, rest all the time, no crying, no dying, no body is sick, Dude it's the most awesome place I've ever been." Thanks Josh for giving me those words to write for others. I'll see ya soon Buddy. Love ya,
