“ Larry and I met in the summer of 1969 while attending McNeese University. We became instant friends and maintained contact with each other over the years.

With his personal charm, brilliant conversation, and gentle smile, he never met a stranger.

I will miss my “brother”.

Shalom my old friend. Shalom.

“ As his current wife (and not his ex-wife -- an error!), I will miss my husband until the day I die. He was a magnificent human being, a wonderful friend, a brilliant mentor and teacher, and he was my true love. My heart breaks for the last two years in which he was so ill, both in body and in mind. Rest in peace, my love. I continue to adore you!

Mrs. Stone, I am just finding out of his passing. I am so very sorry. Mr. Stone was my teacher and mentor and made such a tremendous impact on my life. The world is darker without him.
