“ As a year approaches of your passing away, it seems so strange not to hear from you. Your smile will forever be in my heart and memories of our life will never be forgotten. You will always hold a special place of love in my heart. I had prayed and wished for your freedom for so long and I am glad your struggle is over. You are greatly missed here on earth. Love As always, Rhonda

“ A sharp mind, a humble soul, and a persistent man who didn't give up, even in the end. That was what my father was. My dad's hands told the story of his life, the hardness of them showed how hard he fought to build the life he wanted for his family and himself. The lines etched into them shows how many times to fought and got up again to keep fighting. The scars told the story of his hardships and how he'd healed and gained from them. His hands fixed, healed, fought, and loved and those hands of a strong and resilient man will be missed.

I love you, Dad. Heaven will give us our second chance to love and do right again.
