“ I am the last person she would ever expect to write something, but I feel the need to state a few things. She was a wonderful woman who loved life and what she did. It know it is to late to say certain things. I appologize for everything I did and did not say.. I will always love you....##imported-begin##Stephen Marshall##imported-end##

“ I will always remember my "baby girl" and those blue eyes. I watched you grow up and mature into a beautiful woman and a dedicated soldier. You were part of my family and I felt motherly pride at your successes and accomplishments. Few people can endure the hardships you had to overcome and still achieve so much in such a short life. You never seemed to get a break, but your perseverance and determination inspired us to carry on. For such a tortured soul you always made everyone around you happy. I hope you are at peace – you will always be in my heart. Love always, “Mom” Kathy##imported-begin##Kathy McCutcheon##imported-end##

“ When the 415th Military Intelligence Battalion returned from Iraq in 2006, Stacey and I, along with a few others, were sent to Fort Dix to inventory the unit's equipment and prepare it for shipment to Louisiana. When we arrived at Fort Dix, it was freezing, we had a huge task before us, and I was in a horrible mood. Stacey made it her intention to lighten the mood of our little team, and in her own inimitable way, she had all of us laughing hysterically within minutes. This trip to Fort Dix marked the first time I had spent substantial time with Stacey. We had a great time during those few days, and remained friends thereafter. The last conversation I had with Stacey took place a couple of weeks ago, in front of Building 10 at the Gillis Long Center in Carville. We shared a smoke while taking a ride on my golf cart. She talked about her time in the 415th, her job in the 62nd, and how much she missed Lee. I had almost just waved at Stacey and passed on by that day. I'm so glad I didn't.##imported-begin##Sam Bankester##imported-end##
