“ My Suzette! That's how I thought of her. When we were little, I loved her laugh, it was loud and infectious. The way she said my name just made my heart melt, or run for the hills, depending on the tone. She was always kissing everybody. I used to stare at her fingernails, she was always tapping them on the table. The only thing that scared me was her doing Ronna's hair. I was just waiting for Ronna's eyes to pop out. We ate a lot of beans and rice. If I could have just put her voice in a bottle so I could open it now and then. Go rest easy my sweet Aunt Suzette. I love you. See you soon and save me a seat.
