“ *Sail with me Virginia, my trusted friend of Bill!
You have always watched over me and trust you always will.*

*The lord is my Shepard, and you are a light.
May a beacon you be, and the 12 steps I practice right.*

*I adore you and your Larry, we laughed and was sincere.
I feel like you're my maw. What now, after 10 year?*

Some true best friends, with all the care in your hearts. I'll ne'er let you go from my head and my heart.

Love you too Larry (Paw), this prayer goes out for you.

*May you ne'er feel empty, alone or blue,
at this time when memories may seem to haunt you.*

It's the blessing we borrowed, were entrusted and loaned, that we should be grateful because we were head strong, to live by the Lord and take care of His own.

Friends of Bill W. Since February 08, 2010

“ Without You Here

*I walked the shore in blush pink morn' to reminisce on life
As gentle breezes stroked the lake with nature's soft caress.
'Twas here we plucked the daffodils 'ere she became my wife.
Someone, I thought could never be, within my heart to bless.
The grass, bejeweled by morning dew, was mottled brown and green
Where Spring began to show her face adorned with flowers fair.
The air was crisp and full of sound from songbirds, sweet, unseen;
As I remembered how the sunlight glistened on her hair.
To find a gnarly, twisted branch to clean and beautify,
We'd search the waterline for remnants of old trees, long dead.
One, convoluted to extreme, arm pointing to the sky
Was used, where alter flowers could be placed, when vows we said.
Two lovers, strolling hand in hand; or Mallard chicks in line;
We often sat on shaded bench and watched this life parade.
Delighted by her touch, from one so loved, was bliss divine.
We marveled at the hand of God and all that He had made.
Today, as then beside the lake, I smiled a sad goodbye"
And said a prayer for her return to my arms, with a sigh.*

*I will always cherish you and the memories of our 31 years together.
Larry*
